FRIGHTFUL ABORTION INCREASE

DOCTOR "JEN" CALFAS MAY BE CANDIDATE COMING ELECTION

Brushing Up Her Political Skirts For Ride On The Proposed Reform Slate.

HAS PLENTY UNADULTERATED NEWS

Self Constituted Leader of Women of Omaha Will Probably Sacrifice Herself on the Political Altar if Properly Urged.—Has Had Peculiar Career—Her Slogan Appears to be "Jennie First, Last and all the Time".

"Doctor" Jennie Calfas, who is a precinct committee woman for her party, it is stated, will attempt to break into the coming city political campaign. The people of the city have seen considerable of her name and of her personality and very few have known who she really was or who she has been in years gone by, which is really an interesting story. Jennie, it is said on very good authority, has political ambitions which sooner or later she hopes may become a reality.

Jennie has slated herself, according to several reports, a self-constituted leader of women's affairs in our great and glorious city, and not even her husband, who amounts to little or nothing in the Calfas family, has attempted to make any suggestions regarding her ambitions. He is a mild mannered little man, with blond curly hair. He has spent several years with Dr. Gifford, eye specialist. Once he became peeved about a story that appeared in the Omaha Bee. He went so far as to call at the Bee office to make his troubles known. He picked on a reporter named Campbell. Now Campbell usually knew what he was writing about, and when Calfas began to tell him what he would do, Campbell lost control of himself for a moment. He landed his right on Calfas' jaw and then proceeded with an assortment of wallops that sent this little blond down the steps over which he had entered. Charlie Best was night editor at the time. He was unable to control Campbell until he had administered some real punishment, however, and Calfas decided he was wrong altogether. It is said he never worked that way on Jennie, who is quite over-sized and something of a fighter.

At any rate, Jennie is making some tall strides in her effort to become a political leader. She came from Canada, and has considerable of that Canadian bigotry and bluff. Her home town is Walsingham Center, Canada, but she has not mixed with the home crowd very much recently. After her first husband had been gone a short time, Jennie got the circus fever. She ran away from her Canadian home with one of the traveling concerns, it is alleged, and that was the way she got into society and politics. Later she came up with the Woodmen Circle, and with that institution she was on the high road to big things. She did not last long, however. She held the office of supreme physician for a short time. It was while in this position that she received through the mails a mysterious box of bon bons.

Jennie tasted one of the bon bons, she told a newspaper man, and soon became very ill. Her illness was in operation when the newspaper man called. After discussing about the matter and otherwise being interviewed for half an hour, Dr. Jennie plucked a big rose from a bouquet in the table and pinned it on the reporter. Of course her husband, who was away at the time, came into the house at this moment and the matter was dropped. A short time afterward, she lost her position with the Woodmen Circle.

She was in distress about some things the Omaha World-Herald said about her and sued Mr. Hitchcock's (Continued on page 3)

CENTRAL LABOR UNION STILL SQUABLING OVER GIBBS AND THE COMMUNITY CHEST

Now Declare that President Did Not Represent Union When He Accepted Place on Board—Gibbs Highly Respected by General Public—Was Selected on His Own Personality. Position Taken by Union Seems Uncalled For.

There is a fine squabble on just now between the Omaha Central Labor Union, which is the official head of labor in this city, and the Omaha Welfare Federation and Community Chest, Omaha's big institution that takes care of the city's unfortunate and does a lot of other things.

It started over the use by the Community Chest and Welfare Board using the name of J. M. Gibbs, president of the Omaha Central Labor Union. Mr. Gibbs was elected a member of the Board of Governors of the Omaha Welfare Board as an individual, according to Secretary Carey, and not as president of the Omaha Central Labor body. This election was considered not only a good thing for the Welfare Board, but it was also complimentary to the Central Labor body. Mr. Gibbs is considered a very fine gentleman by Donor Group of the Welfare body which was probably one of their reasons for electing him to the place on the Board of Governors. It is a place of which, any man, who has consideration for the community, and a charitable feeling, which it is to be presumed all labor leaders have, might well be a bit proud.

But now comes the Central Labor body, through its secretary, with a letter to the Welfare Board to the effect that Mr. Gibbs is not that sort of fellow at all and the Central Labor Union gives orders forthwith that Gibbs name shall never adorn the literature of the Welfare Board.

That is certainly tough. The Welfare Board will probably decide to throw up its job right away, for how could it possibly exist without having the name of "Gibbs" on it, particularly when this is the only name of any great importance that graces this stationery.

The Central Labor Union might at least be a little more considerate. That this body should want to withdraw its president's name from such an institution seems remarkable to say the least. Mr. Gibbs was elected on his own personality and Mr. Steiner's letter to the Welfare Board does not indicate that he personally wishes to have his name taken off these letterheads. At least he has taken no action, up to the time this is written, looking to such a request.

As a matter of fact, this business puts Labor in a very bad light, and if the matter got any more publicity than the Mid-West Labor News and The Mediator could possibly give it, might place labor in a very bad way. As a matter of truth, Labor wants as much proper publicity as any other great institution and the Donor Group extended, as a matter purely of courtesy, to the Central Labor Union, in selecting its president as a member of its Board of Governors. Very properly, these gentlemen took it for granted that labor was entitled on any body that is so representative of the very best interests of Omaha. It has been even suggested (Continued on page 3)

America's foremost impersonator of small town types. He is to appear at the Orpheum for a week's engagement, commencing January 20.

LEGISLATIVE MEN WILL HAVE BIG BANQUET

All the men who have ever served in the Nebraska legislature are to be called together at a banquet in Omaha February 5, under the auspices of the Nebraska Legislative League.

Thomas B. Dysart, president of the league, is asking all those eligible to attend the banquet to write him at once making reservations. Mr. Dysart has sent out notices to 225 members asking them to notify others in their communities who have served in the legislature. It was estimated by Mr. Dysart that 800 men in the state will receive the invitations.

The meeting is non-political and is intended only for the purpose of fostering closer personal relationship among the former law-makers. The regular biennial meeting at the league are held in Lincoln each year.

PLENTY OF HIGH POWERED BEER MADE IN PENNSYLVANIA

Governor Pinchot in a speech to the Anti-saloon league said that the utter failure in enforcing the 18th Amendment was the real breeder of crime. He recommended a law that would allow federal agents to search breweries at all hours of the day and night. They must be making plenty of high powered beer in Pennsylvania.

FIRE DEPARTMENT MADE SPLENDID RECORD IN 1923

Omaha had 632 fires during the year 1923. Less than two a day on the average which is a good showing for a city of this size. The total loss was about two and one half million dollars. This is about the amount the balance for the state suffered. One reason for the good showing is the efficiency of the fire department. We have the best one in the country make no mistake about that.

DENTIST RESUMES WORK

Dr. Willard Mach who was severely burned two months ago has so recovered that he is able to be at his office again. The doctor is able to handle his clientele just as efficiently as before the accident.

KNOCKS AND BOOSTS BY THE OBSERVER

CLAUDE BOSSIE, is reported to have left for sunny Italy where he is supposed to have a fortune of 40 thousand lire awaiting him. If he isn't a liar, the lyes are worth about a jitney a piece. This ought to pay his fare across the pond and part way back. The wages of sin are high even at the foreign rate of exchange.

ITALIANS are still killing one another. It's their business, but it seems like there is a better way of settling quarrels. Latest shootin' is that of Mrs. Salerno, who blew her uncle's head off. Perhaps it was warranted, perhaps not. The courts will decide that.

JUDGE DAY, told a Mrs. Smith that one husband was a plenty for any woman to bother with. That's what Mrs. Bossie thinks. When the law gets through with the latter's old man he will come to the conclusion that one wife should have been a plenty.

FRED WOODWARD, was jailed, charged with wholesale looting of gas meters. That was not the right thing to do, but several thousand gas users hereabouts will call the act retributive justice.

ANOTHER ABORTION CASE

According to Deputy County Attorney, John Yeager, Mrs. John McGuire, Pinkney street, came to her death through an illegal operation. If true this is the second reported death within a week as a result of unlawful operations.

EVERYBODY WANTS TO BE COMMISSIONER CANDIDATE

There is the usual belief by several hundred receptive Omahans that "Oh I might as well get in, they are all doing it". Thus they decide that they are either a real candidate or else a much talked of man for the place. Some even profess to believe they have a chance to be elected. It's a merry crowd. Several have thought well enough of themselves to pay their fee to the election commissioner. The Mediator says "The more the merrier". This great religious newspaper is for them all. A lot of them, however, will decide that they should have kept out. There are only a few that have a chance. It's a sorry spectacle to see these fellows who go crazy about themselves the day after primary election. It does not cost much, however, and every man and woman who votes has a right to run. We say again, "go to it", and the devil take the hindmost."

CONCERT AT CHURCH

Lovers of music are to have a rare musical treat Saturday night, Jan. 19th at the North Presbyterian Church, 24th and Wirt Sts. The Dinevor Concert Co., a company of Welch musicians will give a concert. These musicians have won honors and medals in the old country as well as in the United States.

MIKE CLARK SPOKEN OF AS COMMISSIONER CHOICE

Mike Clark, late sheriff of Douglas county, is spoken of as a candidate for county commissioner. Mike is not talking himself, and when the subject was broached to him he had little to remark. He said, however, that his eyes were giving him a lot of trouble, and that he was a victim of high blood pressure, that was giving him all the troubles he wanted at present. Those familiar with police conditions, are sure Mike will be a candidate for something this spring or fall. A lot of people would like to see him run for city commissioner. One thing is a cinch, whatever he runs for he may be depended on to land it.

OMAHANS WILL WELCOME LINCOLN TO WESTERN LEAGUE

Local baseball followers are anxious to see Lincoln get the Sioux City Western league franchise. The capitol city is a pretty good baseball town while the up river burg has proven a bust in recent years. While Omaha is out of its class in the Western nothing seems to turn up on the baseball map that would make it possible for the Nebraska metropolis to get into the American Association where it belongs.

So long as the city is in the West-ern it is better that Lincoln get the franchise than some southern city.

WRONGED GIRLS TAKE THE MOST EASIEST WAY OUT

Death Of Lillian Holman Calls Attention To Terrible Conditions As They Exist In Omaha

ABORTION "HOSPITALS" DEATH TRAPS

Illegal Operations in City Too Common — Many Untimely Deaths Result—Strange Women Telephones Paper She Saw Men Digging Grave at Child Home—Doctors and Nurses in Calhoun—New Sensations Looked For.

Abortion is as old as the medical profession and perhaps older. It is like any other sin of commission, thrives through voluntary patronage given not only freely but anxiously by the victim of some brute or through the working of nature in cases of married couples where circumstances seem to warrant such drastic and illegal action.

The attention of Omaha citizenry has been once more called to this abominable practice through the pitiful death of Lillian Holman, a mere strip of a girl who sacrificed her life on the altar of conscience and false pride. This girl, according to her death bed statement was the victim of an assault by a local ball player after a drunken revelry on bootleg poison hootch and the enticing, passionate, not to say ardent love making that goes with a closed, heated car with lights dimmed and the senses dumbed, with even the thought of morality stifled and choked through practices that were supposed to have been cured with the advent of prohibition.

Dr. Frederick A. Edwards and Mrs. Lillian Child, professional nurse, stand charged with murder. The question immediately arises, are they the real murderers? Even though the courts should eventually arrive at the conclusion that they are the ones who actually performed the operation or were accessories after the fact. Many poor misguided women, many passionate, unthinking young men, thousands of young married men and women will testify that the taking of a life, immature, has been the saving of a life or lives, that are fully developed. To these unfortunates, it is and always must be a choice between two evils, which in large measure can be attributed to the false sense of propriety with which the age old custom of silence and mis-information has prevailed and still prevails in spite of modern thought.

As everyone knows it is against the law to publicly devise ways and means and then broadcast such ways and means of preventing the bringing into the world of legitimate or illegitimate offspring. Thus the girls of today as in the ages past are left in total darkness concerning the most important thing in life, which is in fact the cause of so many abortions and the result of so many untimely deaths.

With all that the practice is unlawful and should be abolished for the general good. In this particular case a girl dies as a result of a night of passionate revelry, which she may or may not have been used to. If the doctor in the case performed the operation as charged, he did no more than do dozens of other Omaha doctors. If the actual work in such cases is bad and unlawful, the method employed is a hundred fold worse.

These abortion doctors pick out some such "hospitals" as the one run by the Childs women, land the victim at the place after being assured of not only a fat fee for themselves but an outrageous price for hospital services. There she is given indifferent treatment and thrown out like a rat long before one operated upon is in reality able to leave. Complications set in and in all too many cases death (Continued on page 3)

DAGOS WILL HAVE THEIR DAY IN COURT WHEN SALERNO TRIAL BEGINS

Beautiful Young Italian Woman Who Shot Uncle to Death Very Popular in "Little Italy"—Shooting May Lead to Further Bloodshed—Killer Still in Jail—Relative and Associate of Former Bootleg Queen.

Mrs. Louise Salerno will be another Italian to have her day in court shortly. Mrs. Salerno shot and killed Peter Sferas this week, according to eye witnesses. Mrs. Salerno, is the wife of Tony Salerno, well known especially to bootleggers and consumers of Dago Red. His father was Joe Salerno, who lived for so many years on Pierce street, close to the fire engine house. Incidentally, Joe was a regular fellow, and had a host of friends, in the American as well as in the Italian colony.

Mrs. Salerno is a fine looking, in fact beautiful Italian woman. She lived with Louise Vinciguerra on Forester Avenue. She has been generally liked by the Italian people. She charges that Sferas was a monster, and that not satisfied with having destroyed her own life, was picking on her two younger sisters when the shooting occurred. She is the mother of two bright, happy faced children. Those who have followed the whole thing will give her the benefit of every doubt. Despite her association with the "Queen of the bootleggers" Mrs. Salerno was what might be called a modest little woman. She attended strictly to her own business, and only the worst provocation could have induced her to kill a man in cold blood, as she is charged with doing. Mrs. Sferas says it was all lies that Mrs. Salerno told, but a generous public will take another view of it. Mrs. Sferas also threatens to take care of all of Mrs. Salerno's family in true Italian fashion. This may mean more red blood is to flow in the future.

Just now Mrs. Salerno is in jail, held for the murder of Sferas. She is pretty well taken care of, even at that. She has been looked after by her husband and his friends, who saw that she wanted for nothing that could be had in her comely surroundings. Expert lawyers have been retained to defend her and she will have no need to worry over being properly defended.

Mrs. Vinciguerra is well enough known. She once remarked to a representative of this paper:

"The Italian people are all right if you let them alone, but they are fighters when double-crossed. A lot of Omaha people do not know us. We will show that we are honest, hard working people."

This bit of information came as a result of her arrest for bootlegging. She was really a fine woman to talk to. She, like Mrs. Salerno, is good looking, but considerably older. The day she talked to a reporter, both she and Mrs. Salerno were busily engaged putting her fine home in order and looking out for business. Neither of them wore stockings at the time, their uncovered legs being apparently very much at home in their naked condition. Mrs. Vinciguerra is apparently quite able to take care of herself, as did Mrs. Salerno, at all times.

PENDULUM SWINGS FROM PROHIBITION

The concensus of opinion prevailing at this time denotes very clearly that a great majority of men and women voters of this country have tired of the Volstead act but are still strong for the Eighteenth Amendment. Several national weeklies and prominent dailies have during the past two years polled their readers on the prohibition question. Without exception the results have shown that the people in general are glad that the saloon was voted out of existence forever.

However all agree that prohibition has not been enforced and never will be so long as the Volstead act is on the statutes. Tens of thousands of intelligent citizens have written their favorite paper or magazine protesting the enforcement clause.

The latest "ballot" has been concluded resulting in all but open war fare on the obnoxious act. Collier's National Weekly in its issue this week publishes the result of three months hard and conscientious work in getting the views of more than twenty thousand readers.

This weekly is widely read by every sort of people, by the radical wets and the radical dries, by the pauper and the multi-millionaire, by farmers, merchants, lawyers and who not. It is typically a national institution if there ever was one. They offered two thousand dollars in prizes, divided twenty-four ways for the best articles on prohibition. More than 22 thousand people responded. Every prize winner but one asserted that the law must be upheld though nearly all of them say that it is impossible to enforce the law until the enforcing act has been changed.

The first grand prize winning letter was written by one Willis P. MacGerald of Chicago. His suggestions are so practical and his vision so clear that every voter in the country should read it before they vote again for congressman or senator. The conclusions reached by this writer is summarized by him in the concluding paragraph. He says he would concentrate repressive effort upon unauthorized manufacture and distribution of distilled liquors. He would have the law so amended as to permit the manufacture and sale in original containers of wines and beer of higher alcoholic content than is now permitted. Forbid resale. Forbid sale of alcoholic beverages for consumption on premises. Remove restriction on home-brewing and wine-making. He concludes; "If any state wants to be drier, it has the privilege".

Therein is a suggestion that should meet with the approval of every thinking American that wants to see the law so amended that its provisions can and would be enforced.

F. S. Castyglone of New York puts it very aptly when he says that Prohibition is a success, the Volstead act a failure. He comments to the effect that prohibition has closed the corner saloon, and stopped millions of Monday morning "hangovers". Then this writer goes on to say that the enforcement act is a miserable failure. Booze is rampant, the bootlegger is an institution anywhere and everywhere. Those who cannot afford to buy, make booze. Disregard of the Volstead Act is not a matter of race, creed, environment or locality. It is universal.

These are but two of the thousands of letters received, all advocating a program of light wines and beer. Even the radical pro-Volsteaders admit the law is not being enforced effectively, but their cry is to let well enough alone and give the law time to work out. Just how much time that would take no one living will ever be able to learn, surely not in a life time.

Don't Air Grievances

There is something infinitely pathetic in the uncomplaining fashion in which lower-middle-class French women are now demeaning themselves. Among them there is cherishing of grievances (except that of the closing of the convents); not a touch of that rankling sense of wrong that is so rife among their English sisters; hardly a trace of any effort to draw attention to their distress, and have a remedy for it devised. On the contrary, it almost seems as if their one wish was to hide the fact that they are poor, to keep themselves and their poverty well out of sight—Edith Sellers in the Atlantic.

"Genius" Now Forgotten

Mouldering in a London cellar lies the life work of a British artist, who in his day was regarded as the equal of Turner. It consists of the Biblical canvases of John Martin, whom the first Lord Lytton pronounced "the most original genius of his age" and Ruskin called one of the four painters who had "the most influence on the ordinary Protestant mind." Martin's pictures were exhibited in Europe and America, were wondered at by the people and engraved to be the ornaments of gift books and the walls of homes of the pious.

Not Like Enoch Arden

"Hank Henbenny always was a contrary cuss," remarked Tobe Sagg of Sandy Mush. "After he'd been married about three years he left home without any reason that anybody knowed of. After a spell his wife married ag'in, and then a while later he came back and proved he'd never been dead a-tall. His wife got a divorce from her second husband, and was all ready to marry Hank ag'in when he just simply up and died without telling anybody what he was aiming to do."

Stinginess Rebuked

The beadle was in the habit of showing visitors over the remains of the abbey in the parish. On one occasion he had done so for a lady who, on leaving him in the churchyard, offered him only barren thanks. As she went through the gate the wily man remarked: "Well, ma'am, if you find you've lost your purse when you get home, remember you didn't have it out here."

FRIGHTFUL ABORTION INCREASE

Out of respect for the truth it must be said that in the case of Dr. Edwards, he is a graduate of a high class medical college and has degrees from two others and that his reputation has been pretty good, so it ill behooves anyone to censure him at least until after such time as he has had an opportunity to show himself innocent of the charge or has been found guilty by an unbiased jury.

That there is, as charged by County Attorney Beal, a ring of doctors who perform illegal operations for their main source of revenue, is not to be denied. Time and again, this paper has received letters and telephone calls concerning some illegal operation, sometimes resulting in death.

Early one morning a woman called the office and told of seeing people digging what looked to be like a grave at the Child home, on the previous night. We believed at the time that the statement was but a child of some one's imagination but it may have had an essence of fact.

One thing is sure, it is not right to say that many of our well known ethical physicians are above committing abortion if the price and the conditions justify it in their own minds, at least that is the impression created in the minds of many Omaha citizens, some of whom claim to know from personal experience and observation.

A PAGE FROM THE HISTORY OF NEW YORK'S GANGLAND

ALWAYS A COLORFUL SOURCE OF LITERARY MATERIAL

New York's lower East side, Gangland in particular, is and always will be as realistic and colorful a source of literary and historical material as the most vivid-minded portraitist could reveal. Moreover, the further one goes into the history of Gangland the more startling the revelations.

To a great extent the Paramount photoplay, "Big Brother," which was written by Rex Beach and produced by Allan Dwan, brings to understanding some of the color and astonishing history of the lower East side. Jimmy Donovan (a most placid name for a gang leader) the hero of the story, will in many respects remind one of Ike the Blood, Indian Louie, Biff Ellison, Chick Tricker, Sardinia Frank, Johnny Spanish and a host of others.

About a decade ago there were four gangs in the lower section of Manhattan, the one and only doctrine and religion of all being dollars and warfare. The Five Points gang, with 1,500 members, was supreme between Broadway and the Bowery, Fourteenth street and City Hall park. Monk Eastman's crowd, with 1,000 members flourished between Moore and Fourteenth streets and the Bowery and the East river. The Gas House gang held sway along Third avenue between Eleventh and Eighteenth streets and the Gophers were in possession of the West Side.

Kid Dropper—Louie Cohen

In the operations of these bands

there are a thousand tales to tell, none hardly more sanguinary than the killing of Kid Dropper by Louie Cohen a few months ago. The Dropper, you will recall was 'drilled' just a few minutes after being discharged from court, where he had been arraigned with thirteen of his gangsters. With his death a gang leader of equal cunning and courage would take his place.

The story of "Big Brother, a picture to be shown at the Strand for one week beginning Sunday, January 20th, may serve to remind some of the feud between Chick Tricker and Eat-Em-Up-Jack. Tricker was a recognized leader and the latter was the 'sheriff' of Paul Kelly's flourishing Dance hall in Great Jones street. Tricker, it seems made a remark about a girl, who danced past his. Eat-Em-Up-Jack heard and an argument followed. They agreed to meet outside in a few minutes. No sooner met than the bark of pistols, the several shots bringing two policemen. Tricker was shot in the leg. Five minutes later a huge piece of lead pipe sent Eat-Em-Up-Jack to the ground. He was dead.

To Get Film Facts Took Ray Months

Popular Picture Star Believes Big Picture Has Universal Appeal

Charles Ray built his super-production of "The Courtship of Miles Standish," which comes to the Rialto Theatre, Sunday, to catch the imagination of our people regarding the authentic facts of the adventure out of which grew the original Thirteen Colonies. He filmed this picture primarily for entertainment, yet his research department spent many months in delving into history, so that each detail would be historically correct.

"I first began to give serious thought to something like this," Ray recently stated, "when the big foreign picture, based upon European history, began to come over to this side. Their whole spirit was alien to the American lines of thought, and technically they were much inferior to American standards of our calling."

"And yet they delighted the majority of the American people. Why? I asked myself, and after reflection I concluded that it was because they represented something more than mere entertainment, each had a great underlying idea that might be summed up in the word 'tradition.' This gave them a realism."

"It was while the matter was turning over in my mind that my sister suggested as a theme for me 'The Courtship of Miles Standish.' That led me straight into an American tradition of the finest sort, for the recital of the first American love story could not be made without a much larger background, and that background manifestly would have to be a great adventure of the Pilgrim Fathers and all that signified."

"There was an immense satisfaction to me in playing a real character not in the puppet of some author's imagination. In one case an actor merely does an impersonation; in the other he may live in his imagination the actual life of the figure he portrays."

BESSIE AND WOMAN GET PASSPORTS FOR EUROPE

Claude Bossie, our erstwhile city clerk, has set sail for Europe on the good ship Majestic, with his "wife", whom the wise ones say is Ruth Walmsley. Ruth was once an Omaha school girl and she later fell for Bossie's "tootsie wootsie" stuff in Kansas City. Ruth lost her virginity with her common sense, if she ever had any, and from last reports is said to have lost 2 thousand bucks by loaning it to the ex-city clerk which Bossie and she are spending on their "honeymoon".

There always did appear to be something wrong with that fellow; was the way one of the fellows, who has known Bossie for a long time, put it. And that is about what everybody else has decided. As a matter of truth, Bossie was an accident. He was a lucky accident, however, and fell into some pretty good things while he was sticking around Omaha. He has gone to Italy to inherit a fourth or fifth of a fortune his father left. It is said he may realize something like 3 thousand dollars, most of which he will doubtless spend with Italian lawyers before he gets the money.

sembles the Clark and McCullough brand to a pleasing degree.

The company will also include a large chorus of extremely pretty girls.

"Monkey Shines" is to be served in fifteen unusually attractive scenes with a dozen musical numbers that are both tuneful and jingly. Paul McCullough is the author of the lyrics set to music written by Mike Zelenke. Larry Ceballos staged the many dancing numbers in a most novel and appealing manner. Dependence for good entertainment may be placed on "Monkey Shines".

Sunday's matinee starts at 3:00.

AT THE EMPRESS

With the complete changes on stage and screen, the Graves Bros. players are presenting their farewell performances at the New Empress this week. The current bill which holds the boards through Wednesday is a roundelay of mirth and song captioned "Oh Teddy". It is a brilliant farce comedy replete with humorous situations, snappy dialogue and clever song and dance numbers.

The bill for Thursday, Friday and Saturday is a pretentious musical comedy spectacle entitled "Little Miss Fix It". It gives every member of the company ample opportunity to be seen in their best roles and with Kinslow in the part of a muchly distracted husband seeking his spouse at the "Restashie Inn". There is more than the usual amount of hilarity in store for those who will be on hand to bid their favorite players farewell. A new company, Halton Powell Players, opens Sunday.

WORLD-HERALD PROSPERITY SEEN IN NEW BUILDING

If anyone doubts the prosperity of Mr. Hitchcock, owner of the Omaha World-Herald, that illusion should be dispelled by the notice that the World-Herald will soon build an addition to its very fine building at Fifteenth and Farnam Streets.

A little interesting history is brought to our minds in this connection. About twenty-five years ago, Mr. Hitchcock was a struggling young man who had spent a couple of fortunes, most of it going through unwise investments. Mr. Hitchcock was never a spendthrift or a speculator. At that time his newspaper was having its struggles for existence. Employees were getting their salaries in orders on advertisers. The printers, however, had Mr. Hitchcock cornered and he had to pay them in cash. Later on he put in linotype machines, reducing the force about 60 to 75 per cent. Then he was the dictator. The printers had to use a lot of diplomacy to get by, too.

In 1896, W. J. Bryan was made editor of the paper, in name only. He received 150 dollars per month, and Dick Metcalfe did the work. Mr. Bryan never wrote a column for the paper in his life. He was nominated for president, however, which was the making of the World-Herald. At that time Mr. Hitchcock found it necessary to increase his editorial staff. He hired A. D. Fetterman and W. R. Watson to whom he paid the magnificent salary of 20 dollars a week each. They were only cubs, but Watson is now managing editor of the paper and poor Fetterman is dead. He was a member of the Second Nebraska regiment during the Spanish-American war.

Mr. Hitchcock has been a successful newspaper man. He defeated the Rosewaters in an open fight for supremacy. His new building is a tribute to his success.

"CHIC" SALE, IMPERSONATOR COMING TO THE ORPHEUM

Charles "Chic" Sale, vaudeville's foremost impersonator of small town types of people, opens a week's engagement at the Orpheum, Sunday matinee, to present an epic of home spun comedy through his extraordinary ability as a protean artist. Mr. Sale portrays the kind of people that he knows, understands and loves and whom he has known since childhood.

There is probably not another man on the American vaudeville stage who has given as much care and as close attention to the preparation of his act as Sale. Everyone of his characters are carefully studied-reproductions from life.

Sharing the headline honors with the great protean actor are Renee Robert, one of America's foremost character dancers, who will be seen with the Giers-Dorf Symphonists in a fascinating combination of the moods of terpsichore and Orpheus.

Renee Robert is known in the theatre as one of the few graceful dancers having three separate and distinct specialties; the first is a jazz toe number the second an Indian dance better known as a "color" number, and the third is a modern routine of tricks, such as kicks, front, side and back, and acrobatic dancing in general.

The Giers-Dorf Symphonists are 10 stars and they originally hailed from Council Bluffs, where their father was leader of a theatre orchestra.

One of vaudeville's most popular song couples is George Whiting and Sadie Burt, who will offer a new repertoire of "talk" songs.

Hall, Ermine and Brice are new in vaudeville, although each is a star from musical comedy. The act includes one man and two women.

"Senator" Murphy, billed as "the people's choice" will offer something delightfully refreshing.

Inez Courtney, winsome and beautiful, and as clever as she is bewitching, is another newcomer to vaudeville. She was the petite prima donna in "The Whirl of Broadway", "Blue Eyes" and "Paradise Alley" and like the rest of the stars she too has come to vaudeville.

The "Parisian Trio" present an original offering which consists of a variety of "Hawaiian Steel Guitar Music." The lady member of the act does some lightning cartooning and acrobatic dancing.

"MONKEY SHINES"

Top-Notch Musical Show Booked For Week of Rollbacking Fun

An uncommonly attractive offering of Columbia Burlesque is promised at the popular Gayety theatre week starting Saturday matinee, in Clark and McCullough's "Monkey Shines", scheduled for the usual daily matinee and regular evening performances. Here is an all-new show brought into view for the first time this season.

Written and produced by Bobby Clark and Paul McCullough, those two noted comedians, who but recently forsook Columbia Burlesque to engage as chief entertainers with Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue", theatre-goers are assured of a rattling good entertainment filled with laughs, songs and dances. And to further insure its success "Monkey Shines" has been provided with a cast that is a real top notcher.

George Shelton and Al Tyler, well-known to both vaudeville and burlesque as character comedians par excellence, assume typical Clark and McCullough roles. In these parts they have been skillfully coached by the originals so that their work re-

COMMUNITY CHEST CALLS FOR FIRST INSTALLMENT

In an announcement just made, E. F. Folda, Treasurer of the Omaha Community Chest and Welfare Federation made an appeal to contributors to the recent campaign to pay their quarterly subscriptions which were due January 1st, if they have not yet done so.

"Every time we send out a statement it costs us nearly eight cents," said Mr. Folda. "Every time we spend an extra eight cents, it is that much taken from the money which should go toward aiding the unfortunate."

The first quarter of the pledges were due on New Years day. A good proportion already has been received, but Mr. Folda said many have not yet paid.

The Community Chest made their first payment of one-twelfth of the money raised to the thirty charities and social welfare agencies which partake of the budget.

"I am confident that the Chest will prove a big success during this year and will be again accepted by the people with the generous response that it received during its first campaign," said J. E. Davidson, who was director of the campaign. "Many business men and others have told me that they happily missed usual tag days and the calls made on them for individual subscriptions."

ARTHUR EDSON IS BIG OMAHA AUTO PAINTER

Place at Fifteenth and Davenport Streets for Painting and Building Auto Tops and Bodies is Busy Place All the Time

A place where auto top, painting and building is featured right up to the minute, that is not generally known about, is located at Fifteenth and Davenport streets. It is operated by Arthur L. Edson, a master of the art he follows, and a splendid fellow to deal with. When automobiles commenced to look tacky, or the paint got bad, Edson conceived the idea of having them rebuilt and painted up. With that notion in view he started his business in a small space, which occupied part of his decaying carpenter shop. It was not long until his automobile painting and rebuilding business took all his space. Now he occupies a quarter of a block for his business.

The reason for his growth is a popular one. All automobiles grow old and sooner or later require the sort of work that Mr. Edson's shop is equipped for. He has some expert workmen who can build any kind of an automobile or auto truck body, and his painting department is of the very latest sort. His work has been pronounced perfect by customers, hundreds of whom he has with his business growing.

If you have an old automobile or one that needs something done to it just haul or drive it around to Edson's place. He certainly will take care of it for you.

$30,000,000 Worth of Locomotives Sold by Telephone in Three Minutes

"Not long ago I concluded negotiations and took a thirty million dollar order over the telephone in three minutes," says Samuel M. Vauclain, President, Baldwin Locomotive Works, in a recent issue of Success Magazine.

"It saved perhaps five days in time," declared Mr. Vauclain. "Fifteen minutes after I had hung up the receiver the shops had started work on the order. In the old days, work would not have been started until every paper had been signed.

"The telephone breeds confidence," says Mr. Vauclain, "and once that is established prosperity is certain. I can call up Havana and in five minutes or half an hour find out as much about the other fellow's point of view, and tell him, as much about mine as I could by wasting ten days in a trip South."

Mr. Vauclain sells locomotives by telephone. Other men use it to sell flowers, fish, pencils, tires, specialties—scores of widely different products, more quickly and more economically. Do you sell by telephone?
