

THIRTY WOMEN CAUGHT IN RAID

FIVE THOUSAND SLATES LOOKING FOR STATE

Candidates Shy at Solicitations From Wead-Thomas Crowd

SOME CHURCHES AGAINST ACTION

Campaign Conditions Show Funny Political Mixture With Some of Proposed Candidates Anxious to Avoid Tieup With "5000 Committee"—Vote for Seven

The "committee of 5,000," composed, it is reliably stated, of about a dozen promoters who seek self-aggrandizement, political preferment or a corner on political grafting, are out with their announcement that they will have a hand in the coming spring election and that they will put a slate in the field for the endorsement of the people when it comes time to vote early in April.

Let it be known that these birds are out after the goods, and they are not very particular just how they secure the results they seek. This organization has let it be known that they represent the "church element" of Omaha, whatever that means. In fact, they are telling the people that their ticket is to be the "church ticket," which would be a mighty good thing if it was half way true.

Let it be known, however, that the rank and file of respectable church people have lost faith in some of the doings of the leaders who pretend to represent them. It is a pretty big job for any coterie of admitted political gangsters to undertake to tell the people of a city like Omaha that they represent the churches and that they are authorized by the church people to dictate who shall hold office and things of that sort. For that reason there appears to be a pretty general feeling that the Wead-Elmer Thomas-

Callfas combination is not nearly so representative as it claims to be. Last Thursday night this organization held a meeting and endorsed Roy Towle and Dean Ringer as candidates and promised to complete its slate at a meeting next Thursday night. The refusal of Ed P. Smith to again make the race is considered significant. Whatever may be said of Mayor Smith, he is credited with seeing in advance the way sentiment is turning and he apparently wants to quit while the quitting is good. He is quoted as saying, not for publication, however, that not a single one of the present members of the city commission has a ghost of a chance to be returned, with possibly one exception.

At this time a lot of men whose names have been mentioned as candidates have not let it be known for sure whether or not they would file, and most of them have been waiting to get a more definite line on the activities of other candidates who have been getting into the race. All of which is considered pretty sensible by those in a position to know what is going on. Most of the candidates have hoped to get onto certain "slates" and have been looking over their chances to get on before they file their petitions. By those who are in a position to know, it is claimed that Tom Dennison will not be put on the "5,000" (Continued on Page Three.)

LABOR SITUATION DARKENS BUT LEADERS SAY DISTURBANCES FEW

General Reductions of Wage Schedules in Order But Unions Will Fight Efforts to Return to Ten-Hour Schedule— Strikes Not Anticipated

The labor situation has become more acute the past week, with numerous meetings being held by union labor to decide on a plan of future action. A significant feature of these meetings has been a decided feeling against inaugurating strikes in the near future. In fact union labor heads have notified members of unions that such action would be foolish and have been fighting against the idea of strikes of any sort this spring.

Announcement has come from employers in building trades and packing house lines that a reduction of from 20 to 30 per cent will be inaugurated in the near future and this announcement has caused no little excitement in union labor circles. Some of the larger contractors have done their figuring on construction jobs on a basis of this reduction in the wage scale and have issued an ultimatum to employes that they may expect the reduction if they wish to go to work when construction begins.

In Chicago there has been a decided fight waged against a proposed return to the ten-hour working day by packing house employes. It is argued that this action of employers is going too far. The packing house men declare they will fight the proposition to the last ditch. A national conference of men representing packing house employes will be held in Omaha next week to decide on a line of action.

During the week announcement was made that another 1,900 men were laid off by railroads in Omaha which has put a decided damper on proposed efforts of labor leaders to fight certain reductions in wages. It is now stated that meetings will be held by certain big employers with their men at which it is hoped an understanding will be reached between them. Mediation appears to be the slogan in all lines and the arbitrary front put up in the past by labor leaders has been reduced considerably since the apparent depression has taken place and so many thousand men have been thrown out of employment entirely.

Under an agreement reached three years ago packing house employes agreed to a government arbiter and Judge Altshuler allowed them an increase aggregating $75,000,000 annually, which they have been receiving since that time. The apparent attempt of employers to go back to the old scale is what is causing trouble at this time.

The American Federation of Labor has taken steps to meet new conditions and, among other things it has done, that body has refused to become identified with any international labor movement, wherein revolutionary methods were to be employed. By big employers it is now believed the labor situation will be settled without strikes for another year.

DAHLMAN STILL DARKEST HORSE IN COMING RACE

Jim Dahlman, United States marshal and former mayor, is still the darkest horse in the commissioner race. No formal announcement of his intention to become a candidate has been authorized by him. It is stated, however, by those who pretend to know, that Dahlman will soon file his petition and that he will be in the race to win. He has got the Elmer Thomas bunch badly worried, as have many others who have intimated they may file for a place on the commission. By friends of Dahlman it is declared his election is a cinch if he can be induced to get on the ticket. Jim has a system all his own of acting at the psychological moment.

JIM BLISS IN CAMPAIGN AND LEADS OMAHA GREEKS

Jim Bliss, well known Greek interpreter and leader of the Omaha Greeks, is taking an intense interest in the city campaign that is getting under way. Bliss is employed by two railroads entering the city as interpreter and keeps in touch with affairs as they concern former Greek countrymen. He is a very busy man and covers a lot of territory in his daily work. He says several hundred Greeks will vote at the coming election. Bliss himself was born in Canada, but keeps in touch with American affairs. He has an American wife and five children who take up most of his time.

ED P. SMITH NOT TO AGAIN ENTER IN RACE

Definite announcement that Mayor Ed P. Smith would not again be a candidate for city commissioner has been made. A lot of people are wondering whether he will again change his mind. If his latest decision is on the square it will be a good thing not only for himself but for everybody else in Omaha. Smith has always been considered a pretty good fellow, but as mayor he has been a huge joke. According to all reports Mayor Smith has been a success in office in his own particular way, but his way has not been popular with a lot of people.

Or Some Fancy Duds.

Doings in Omaha Fifty Years Ago

Fred Hayes was enjoying the March sunshine and other things that came his way. Fred had a good conception of what corn was planted and raised for, but he did not tell everything he knew.

Emil Larson said "business is good, thank you." Emil's chief assistant, William Little, was a great pinochle player in his time.

Billy Fox swelled up because one of the newspapers ran his picture. Bill said there was nothing like being popular.

Joe Hummel was a busy fellow. Joe was telling his friends that he expected to go to work again in the near future.

Dean Noyes was not doing much talking but was an awfully busy man. Dean had some funny bees in his bonnet.

There was a big scramble to find out how many slates were to be put in the field at the coming election. Who's who, was a common question.

George Yeager was some political promoter, but all the talk about him for city office was a joke.

Mike Clark, our high sheriff, had a busy week in criminal court. It required all of Mike's ingenuity to handle the crowd of women that wanted to hear testimony in the Lawson trial.

Sergeant Jensen, one of our well-known Omaha coppers, refused to talk politics. He said it was hard enough to hold a policeman's job without getting into politics.

There was considerable worry in city hall circles about how many political officeholders would have a job after the next city election.

Charlie Jacobson, Ames avenue politician, was again on the job. Charlie kept a line on affairs in his end of town.

Dennison For City Commissioner

Announcement recently that a petition was being filed for Tom Dennison for city commissioner created a round of excitement in political circles and has brought up a lot of fellows on their hind feet wondering what was really coming off.

In recent years much has been said about Dennison by politicians of all political colors. Most of them have sought his aid at various times and there has not been a time in twenty-five years when any man running for city office was not willing to be on his "slate." He has been credited with a lot of things, both good and bad, but the fact remains that he has kept out of jail better than a lot of fellows who have posed as martyrs and other things and at this time is a very substantial taxpayer and live-wire citizen of the city.

Nobody has been seen who is willing to deny that Dennison will be a candidate. He has been out of the city for several days and those who have sought information on the subject appear to be at a loss to find out anything for sure. The announcement of his possible candidacy, however, has thrown a scare into the "Committee of 5,000" as it calls itself. It is said some of the men suggested for the slate of that organization would like to have the support of Dennison themselves.

Speaking very seriously, one well known and wealthy business man of Omaha had this to say about it: "I hope Tom gets on the ticket. The chances are about five to one that he would be nominated and elected. With all the talk that has been heard in recent years about Dennison, it may be said without hesitancy that he is a good business man and would make a much better commissioner than most of those now in office. He would receive the unqualified support of many of Omaha's best business interests if he ran and many of his friends are hoping he will get on the ticket. For myself, I am very free to state that I shall do anything I can to help his candidacy if Dennison decides to file."

The same sentiment is heard from many quarters, but thus far Dennison has declined to say whether his name will be filed. His decision will probably not be given for several days.

OLD MILLARD HOTEL SCENE OF BIG CATCH

Several Wagon Loads Garnered In And Taken Before Judge Foster

PROPRIETOR AMONG THE MISSING

Women Are Charged With Being Inmates of Disorderly Place— Attempt Made to Switch Responsibility to Theatrical Profession

Interested people are asking who is the proprietor of the bawdy house, formerly known as the Millard hotel, where thirty women were taken in a raid last week and hauled to the police station as prostitutes and inmates of an ill-governed house. When they were garnered into the booby hatch, this bunch of prostitutes had many stories to tell and many claims to make. The raiding squad apparently had planned all the work of gathering in the crowd of women who have been plying their trade at the Millard hotel, because the wagon hauled several loads of them to the station.

The "hotel," as Weiner, the proprietor, calls the place, has had many extraordinary experiences. Some of the theater people who make annual visits to the city have been in the habit of using the place as a hostelry while in Omaha. Loud and vigorous charges were heard that the women taken in the raid belonged to a theatrical group stationed in Omaha at the time of the raid. As a matter of truth, members of this company were at work putting on the show when the raid occurred. The manager of the theater has made a public statement that not a single woman taken in this raid on the Millard hotel was connected with any theatrical group playing at his theater.

When these women showed up for trial Monday morning they were charged with being inmates of a disorderly house. They were arraigned before Judge Foster and the charges read. The police officers stated the women had been taken from the Millard hotel, located at Thirteenth and Douglas streets, which place has been the scene of many police raids in the past. In fact, this place has been in the courts many times.

When this bunch of women were arraigned in police court, charged with being inmates of a disorderly house, Judge Foster asked which of them was the proprietor. It then developed that no proprietor had been (Continued on Page Three.)

SALACIOUS TESTIMONY BRINGS OUT NUMEROUS WOMEN IN LAWSON TRIAL

Miss Werts Smith Tells of Life of Shame of Herself and Dead Sister and Implicates Two Omaha Hotels as Being Their Rendezvous

During the week Omaha people have been given a spectacle in the criminal branch of the district court it seldom sees. Burnell Lawson, young and handsome, as beauty goes in young men, is on trial in the criminal court for the murder of his wife, a few weeks ago. Attracted to the trial by what was expected to be testimony of the most vicious nature, flocks of women and girls have sought entrance to the court room. Many of them, in their eagerness to miss not a word, have even carried their lunches and refused to leave the court room during the luncheon recess.

Those of them who sought something out of the usual have had their curiosity gratified because of the testimony has been unprintable. One of the chief witnesses was Eulalia Werts Smith, sister of the dead woman, who occupied an apartment with the Lawsons at the Hollywood at the time of the shooting. Dressed in mourning and still wearing a mourning veil, Miss Werts Smith took the stand Wednesday and spent many hours under direct and cross-examination. Her story was that of a life of shame, in which she told how her sister and herself had rooms at different times at the Loyal and Merchants hotel, where she admitted they entertained men in a manner not in keeping with usual social ethics. The money they earned, she said, all went to Burnell Lawson, on trial for the murder.

Incidentally, Miss Werts Smith admitted her part in a life of shame and told how men were held up for sums ranging as high as fifty dollars at a single time. She declared her sister and herself turned the money over to Lawson, who chided them, she testified, because they did not earn more. The defense, however, had an inning and Attorney Gene O'Sullivan announced early in the trial that he would show that the women did most unnatural things, and that they accepted the advances of colored men as well as white in their rooms at one of the hotels.

Meanwhile, Young Lawson had a seat near his attorney in the court room and at times covered his face with his hands. This was particularly true when reference was made to his mother, who sat just behind him, and to other matters which concerned family ties.

Altogether, the testimony was of the most unusual nature and much of it was entirely unprintable. Miss Werts Smith admitted being a woman of the world and recited some most unusual occurrences during her brief life in Omaha. Judge Troup, who has heard much unusual testimony during his incumbency on the bench, at times gave evidence of disgust at some of the evidence produced. Under the rules of the court, testimony must be given in the open, for which reason there was no way of dropping the curtain to the extent of excluding as many persons as the court room would accommodate. During the trial some of the women present sat in their seats from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m., without even going to the ladies' retiring rooms during the entire day.

The trial is not expected to be concluded until the middle of next week. Meantime, Sheriff Clark has found it necessary to detail several deputies to keep in touch with doings in the court room and has himself given his personal attention to the trial of young Lawson.

ARE YOU DOING YOUR SHARE?

Under the above caption, the Chamber of Commerce makes these pertinent inquiries of employers of automobile and truck drivers:

Are you doing your share to reduce the automobile accident rate in Omaha?

Do you demand that your drivers always exercise caution when operating your trucks or automobiles?

Did you ever explain to your men that the traffic rules are made for their protection and that they should therefore obey the rules for their own sake?

Did you ever point out to them how expensive it is to the company when accidents occur that cause damage to property and create the possibility of law suits?

Have you ever pictured to them a child crippled for life from an auto accident that could have been avoided and then painted the picture more forcibly for them by placing the child in their own homes?

Did you post either the "Notice to Drivers" that we sent to you a couple of weeks ago, or one similar, and if so did you send us a copy of the notice you used?

Check ver these questions and see how many you have complied with. Then decide for yourself if you have already performed your fully duty as an "Onward Omaha" citizen to make the streets of this city safe—safe for your wife, kiddies, relatives and friends, as well as the dear ones of the other fellow.

May we have an expression from you telling us what you have done and what you propose to do to help eliminate avoidable accidents and what you think of the traffic safety movement in this city?

GOING OUT AND COMING IN

Today is a day of "going out and coming in" at Washington, where Mr. Harding is relieving Woodrow Wilson of a task that has occupied Mr. Wilson's time for the last eight years.

In many respects the retiring president has been the most remarkable man who has ever occupied the White House, some writers comparing him with Washington and Lincoln. But Woodrow Wilson, after having passed through eight years of the most remarkable period of American history, retires in a manner not at all desirable to himself or to his friends. His physical condition is all but hopeless and by many it is said his mental capacity is injured beyond repair. His physique, never anything to be boasted of, has been entirely wrecked, as the result of his efforts in behalf of his country.

Being president of the United States is something to which comparatively few men have aspired and to which many less have reached the goal. Wilson has been different from nearly every other man that has ever occupied the high position which he occupied until today. He has unsheathed the sword in the cause of world liberty, and defended principles for which he stood until the very moment of his retirement.

Among other things, Woodrow Wilson has been human. Following the death of his wife while he was president, he again took up matrimony and wedded for the second time, although he is a grandfather. This action is nothing to be held against the retiring president, although it has been the subject of much talk.

The retirement of the German kaiser may be credited almost entirely to the action of Woodrow Wilson, who engaged this nation in a world war at a moment when the future of humanity hung in the balance. The principles he espoused at that time he has consistently defended ever since, despite the fact that he retires from public life without having accomplished some of the chief things for which he has fought. As one French newspaper editor puts it, "there is a tragic grandeur in the political and physical collapse of a man who two years ago was the moral dictator of the world."

In American history the name of Woodrow Wilson will go down much like that of Theodore Roosevelt. In some respects the lives of these two forceful characters had much in common, and although the succeeding administration will deviate much from the paths laid out by Wilson, his work will remain a monument not only to himself but to the democratic party, which sponsored him for the high place he occupied so long.

BEVERIDGE GETS INTO THE COMMISSIONER RACE

Leo Beveridge, newspaper man, was one of the early birds to get into the filing for city commissioner. Beveridge, until a week ago, was on the local staff of the Omaha Bee. He is a graduate of Creighton university and is considered qualified for the place he seeks. He has the support of a live organization that is said to be promoting his candidacy. He is also considered by his friends as a likely winner.

ROOF COTTAGE PLANNED FOR HOME OF BRANDEIS

Young Scion of Wealthy Merchant to Reside in Specially Constructed Home on Top of Big Store Building

Announcement that a cottage is to be constructed on the roof of the Brandeis stores to be occupied as a future home by J. Ervine Brandeis has caused considerable speculation recently...

By those familiar with the outdoor habits of young Brandeis little is thought of this departure from the ordinary. His father maintained a living suite in the Brandeis theater building for a long time before his death.

Although announcement has not been made respecting the matter, it is said Mrs. Brandeis will remain in California indefinitely, and by some it is hinted she will not again return to Omaha to live.

taken to the station. In the past when bawdy houses have been raided, it has been the habit of the raiding squad to take the proprietor. When informed that the proprietor had not been taken in this instance...

Information sought at police headquarters and in the office of Superintendent Ringer as to whether action would be taken against Mr. Weiner could not be secured. By those who have watched the matter the whole business is considered pretty serious.

It is no small matter to take thirty women, charged with prostitution, from an Omaha hotel, so-called, especially at a time when no such thing is presumed to exist in the city. These women were convicted and fined as being inmates of the Millard hotel...

The character of the women caught in the raid could not be vouched for by anybody. Despite charges that they were "theater people," that charge has been vigorously denied and counter charges made that the women were east end solicitors...

Whatever may be the other facts in the case it is true that no "proprietor" was taken in the raid, and those who have taken note of the conditions are wondering who is going to "front" for a condition under which such places exist and do business under a "reform" administration.

IRELAND IN REVOLT

A picture out of the ordinary, Ireland in Revolt, will be put on at the Auditorium March 4, 5 and 6.

Those critics who have seen the picture screened declare it to be one of the most remarkable depictions of humanity in revolt ever attempted by the moving picture man.

Tickets will be on sale next week, but thousands of the little pasteboards have already been put out by Omahans interested in the Irish propaganda.

Popular prices will obtain throughout the showing of "Ireland in Revolt," which in many respects is considered a highly patriotic demonstration of what the Irish people are now working for.

EMPRESS ATTRACTIONS

Music characterizes the vaudeville program opening at the Empress Sunday. The stellar act is to be contributed by Nellie De Onsonne and Her Jazz Band Five.

"Pinched" is the title of a new comedy playlet by Whitney Collins, which is to be presented as a featured act of the show.

Under the caption of "Bits of Musical Comedy," Dick Ferguson and May Sunderland will offer a routine of unique dancing steps and introduce some of the popular song numbers.

William Sisto as "The Italian Statesman," is to offer the comedy element of the bill. His ridiculously funny monologue is said to be a riot of fun and laughter.

"While the Devil Laughs," a Fox production starring Louise Lovely, is to be the featured photoplay attraction.

GAYETY NEXT WEEK

Coming next week to the Gayety theater is Rose Sydell's famous London Belles, which is one of the successful burlesque attractions on the Columbia circuit.

THEDA BERNARD

A pretty singer of jazz songs, with Joe Marks and the "London Belles" at the popular Gayety twice daily all next week

Gorgeous stage settings and costumes that gleam with iridescent beauty are one of the big assets of the London Belles and in no other burlesque show can one discover performers with greater agility and resilience.

The Sydell Silk Stocking Chorus number almost two dozen each more beautiful than the rest and twice as anxious to please. They are all considered very nimble dancers, and have much charm in their voices, which fill the eye and ear very engagingly and leave little to be desired.

The costuming is exceedingly effective and deftly done, showing many blendings of colors which harmonize and with just enough of that French touch to make you look more than once.

The company is headed by Joe Marks, the fastest comedian in burlesque, and his assistants are Steve Paul, Mildred Campbell, Dolly Davis, James Horton, Theda Bernard, May Leonard, Rose Sydell Jr., and the Six Romas, who are the purveyors of the "plot of the play" and the comedy.

Ladies' dime matinee at 2:15 daily all week starting Monday. The Sunday matinee at 3:00 is at pre-war prices.

AT THE BRANDEIS

The master screen craftsman, David Wark Griffith, producer of the screen's greatest sensations, creator of the most advanced innovations in motion picture productions, finder and developer of the world's greatest screen stars, has produced another wonderful production, "The Love Flower," which is being heralded everywhere as a creation of exquisite beauty, haunting charm and spirited drama.

Words of the most superlative degree and descriptions of the most laudatory nature have not been found to express in adequate terms this wonderful picture play of love and adventure such as only a Griffith, a master, may reveal in all its beauty, strength and excitement.

Its theme, primarily, is of unusual interest, interwoven with side lights of intricate complications that add materially to its action. Its heart interest, its suspense and its ultimate justification, for it is an unusually dramatic story of the wonderful love of a daughter for her heart-broken father.

WE SPECIALIZE on watch repairing. If your watch does not keep time, we will make it do so. Brodegaard Bros. Strictly union shop.—Adv.

ORPHEUM OFFERINGS

Four featured acts, two of them being stellar attractions, will have place on the Orpheum bill that comes next week.

For one of the headline offerings Jeannette Hackett and Harry Delmar will present their new dance offering, "The Dance Shop," with a bevy of beautiful sales girls. The light opera celebrity George MacFarlane, is to contribute a concert performance as the other dominant part of the entertainment.

Fred Whitfield and Marie Ireland are to present a rural satire called "Umphsville." They are two of the funniest entertainers that the variety stage has to offer.

The charming vocalists and instrumentalists, the Kirksmith Sisters, are to offer their beautifully staged musical act, "An Old Fashioned Garden." Three other pleasing numbers will round out the bill.

In the dance production Hackett and Delmar will be assisted by six dancers, the most conspicuous of whom are Weeks and Walker. "The Dance Shop," being handsomely staged, is a delight to the eye. A varied assortment of song numbers enliven the act.

People recall that Mr. MacFarlane, with his fine high baritone, was one of the best known members of the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera company. It is the all-star revival of "Trilby" it was he who played The Laird. Afterward he starred in "The Heart of the Heather."

Miss Ireland is a character actress of exceptional ability. In the portrayal of feminine yokels she has no rival. Mr. Whitfield commands the most effective method for bringing out all the phases of her drollery.

The Kirksmith Sisters are a sextet of charming young women. Their achievements, both vocal and instrumental, are a particular delight to vaudeville patrons. In Europe, as in this country, they are held in high favor.

Grant Gardner is a monologist whose humor is the spontaneous and rollicking type. His clever offering combines amusing talk, some singing and some musical eccentricities.

Johnson, Baker and Johnson are boomerang throwers of a very curious pattern. They use a queer assortment of hats for their absurd juggling. Many laughs result from their performance.

The Breakaway Barlows are a gymnastic team. The athletic work is done by the woman, while Barlow himself displays dexterity in addition to amusing comedy.

Once again news events will be pictured on the screen by Kinograms. Humor of the newspaper paragraphs will be shown on the screen under the heading, "Topics of the Day."
