TARDY AMENDS

It must be admitted that Secretary Mellon has endeavored his utmost to undo the gross wrong that was inflicted upon members of the staff of the bureau of engraving and printing when a selected group of old employees was incontinently "fired" some two years or more ago. It was then rumored that great irregularities had occurred and that tremendous quantities of forged bonds, currency or stamps were in circulation. Later on those of the men who desired to return were quietly reinstated, the spoilsman who was responsible for the occurrence forced out of the government service, and now Secretary Mellon advises the president that he has completed an inquiry into the charges and has "found them baseless". The government's securities are not subject to any such hazards as were represented.

Now, here is one of those episodes which give rise to the present deep-seated distrust that is felt by the public with respect to the administration at Washington. That administration, under the influence of some of its baser minds, inflicted a terrible injustice upon a body of faithful men, attempting to justify itself in doing so by a most serious imputation. That same administration, through some of its "better minds", reverses the former action and announces that what was done before was unwarranted. Thus it makes an amende honorable for the evil it has committed, but, of course, it can never wipe out the harm it inflicted upon the employees or the service in the first place. The situation illustrates the curious mixture of good and bad which came into office four years ago. It also illustrates the ineptitude with which our public affairs have been managed as the result of the conflict between these two elements.

NEEDED: A "UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE"

Never was there a time, perhaps, when the need for a "universal language" was so pressing. World contacts are today so close that the differences in language form a growing cause of irritation. This irritation is noticeable not only in politics but in the whole field of business and science, and the question was raised recently before the American Philological Society, which met lately. Every international treaty and convention presents linguistic difficulties; scientists are constantly facing the necessity of digging the means of progress out of documents in tongues unknown to them. International business must employ groups of language experts, and even then finds the going hard. Artificial languages have been tried and fond wanting for many obvious reason. Latin, long a "universal language," is losing its hold even as a study in school and colleges. It seems likely that one of the living tongues will ultimately have to be adopted as a general means of communication. English is today leading the field, but it has a number of sentimental hazards to pass before the homestretch is reached.

Chairman Gentzler Confident That 1,000 New Members Will Be Secured.

"Incomplete reports yesterday showed that victory is in sight," said Gentzler. "We hope to have 1,000 new members by tonight. I am absolutely confident of the results if the workers stick by their jobs until it is done."

The cold rain yesterday brought many welfare cases to the Legion adjutant. There were several requests for clothing.

"These unfortunate men were our buddies when it rained bullets," said Chairman Gentzler. "A little thing like rain can't change our attitude toward them now."

J. J. Isaacson "gren division" led the five divisions yesterday. Close upon his heels were Majors Sam Reynolds, John Hopkins, Hird Stryker and Su Wheeler.

Major Wheeler issued a call for more workers last night. "Every man in my division must be a worker," he said. "I don't want any slackers or deserters."

THE GREAT SIKI TO FIGHT IN OMAHA

(Continued from page 1) but the people like to see him in action and will flock to the shed to see him go ten rounds or less with the equally tough Mike Conroy of New York who will attempt to put a dent in Herman's fist record.

The second preliminary will be an eight round affair between Jerry Nicholas of New York and Schaefer of Omaha. They have signed to fight at 160 pounds and should prove an interesting go.

As an eye opener Yeager has signed up the very red headed Red Wilson and Ed Blitz who are scheduled to go four rounds but will not reach that round if the hard boiled Red can prevent it.

All in all George Yeager and his co-workers the Spanish American War Veterans have signed up and are to put on a really wonderful bill. It took a lot of nerve on the part of George to bring Siki here as the big jet has an international reputation and a keen manager who will not let his man fight without a big wad of dough and an iron clad contract. But we believe Yeager will put it over in ship shape and come out to the good as Siki is the biggest drawing card ever brought to the city.

Their first conversation betrayed the fact that she was not fastidious

At a distance she had appeared unusually neat, immaculate. But upon their first face-to-face meeting he discovered that her teeth were not clean. And he soon lost interest.

So many people overlook this one matter of fastidiousness. And do so in spite of the fact that in conversation the teeth are the one most noticeable thing about you.

Notice today how you, yourself, watch another person's teeth when he or she is talking. If the teeth are not well kept they at once become a liability.

Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. At last our chemists have discovered a polishing ingredient that really cleans without scratching the enamel—a difficult problem finally solved.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And you know it is cleaning safely.

So the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic, have found for you also the really safe dentifrice.

What are your teeth saying about you today?—LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

To summarize, we find that in 1921 he led his two nearest associates by 3032 votes, winning over the next high man in every ward in the city. In this week's election he ran 9573 votes behind Hopkins and Hummel in the various wards in which those two men were high. He lost every ward in the city to the high men on the ticket, from 152 in the Twelfth to 1574 in the Fifth. If that is not enough to convince him the people are about through with him he can try running three years from now and see what happens.

through habit. In our humble judgement a man who was possessed of half the decency he claimed for himself while running for office and was practically defeated even though skidding into said office by a hair breadth after leading the ticket for years would resign out of self respect. Don't look for anything like that from Mr. Butler. Eating out of the public crib without giving anything in return is so soft for that dignified gentleman to give up. In an interview granted the World-Herald on election night the rotund seventh placer said in effect that he would live up to his past reputation which means he will be Omaha's champion knocker for the next three years and will refuse to put the word boost into his limited vocabulary.

Putting Automatic, States One Golfer

When asked by a duffer "how he knew just how hard to hit the ball on the green," a prominent golfer replied: "I cannot lay down any rules for the calculation of strength and distance. Personally, I am of opinion that such calculation is automatic and instinctive. The eye, when one is putting well, 'takes in' the distance, conveys the information through the brain to the muscles, and an automatically correct amount of power is thence put into the stroke. "This theory may be all wrong from a medical or scientific point of view, but I give it as an idea of what I feel takes place in my own individual case when I am hitting my putts really well."

FAMOUS FILM STAR GIVE REASONS WHY MEN LEAVE HOME

Lewis Stone and Helene Chadwick Both Refuse To Put All The Blame Upon The Other Sex.

Lewis Stone and Helene Chadwick who take the leading roles in "Why Men Leave Home", have each given ten reasons why some men leave. Neither would say whether it was the man's or the woman's fault, as a rule, but each was willing to give their views on some of the reasons from the man and the woman's standpoint.

"I wouldn't say for a minute that it is usually the woman's fault," said Mr. Stone. "Sometimes it undoubtedly is and very frequently it certainly is not. I do not know which one is the most often to blame, but I presume that in most cases it is something of the fault of both".

Miss Chadwick was quite as generous in stating that she did not believe it was always the man's fault.

"Some men are brutes and some women are impossible, but that is not the usual case in my estimation. I rather think that in the majority of cases it arises out of misunderstandings and an unwillingness to give in to each other, as is the case in the picture."

Both Mr. Stone and Miss Chadwick emphasized that the reasons they give do not apply to all cases, but are some of the more common reasons. Here are the reasons as given out by the two famous screen stars:

Lewis Stone says:
Some women are inclined to be jealous over nothing.

Some can not realize that a man gives all his energy to business and wants to rest when he gets home.

Some make a fuss if you drop cigarette ashes on the floor or do not put your clothes away in perfect order.

Some don't think it worth while to make themselves attractive for just their husband.

Too much interference from relations and outside advice on private matters.

Some constantly interrupt a man when he is trying to read his paper in peace.

Some are likely to be extravagant, keeping a man's nose to the grindstone to supply them with new dresses.

Some can't understand a moderate sort of tidiness, going either to the extreme of keeping the house so spic and span it makes a man uncomfortable, or else letting everything go slipshod.

They get peeved because you forget a wedding anniversary, forgetting that a man has other things to think about.

Conversation is likely to be on trivial, personal matters instead of the things of the world of affairs that men are interested in.

Helene Chadwick says:
Men are often dears at the office but bears at home.

They would rather play poker with other men than take wife to the picture show.

They are likely to do all their petting before marriage and turn into grouches afterward.

They are always trying to find an excuse to stay out nights instead of spending the evening at home.

They bury their nose in their newspapers and get peeved if interrupted, forgetting that the wife has been shut up in the house all day and needs company and recreation.

Too many of them are downright miserly. They do not run the house on a fifty-fifty basis but dole out money as though they were doing the wife a favor.

Singing the Old Songs.
"Ah, for the old days!" sighed the old-fashioned young man. "The girls of today are not at all like their mothers used to be! Why, I'll bet you don't know what needles are for." He glanced with scorn at the modern girl. "I do, too!" she flashed. "They're for phonographs!"—Wayside Tales.

WASHLINE THIEF OUTWITS VICTIM GONE FOR POLICE

Takes His Departure While Daughter of House Is Seeking Officer.

New York.—Of late, almost every time the Denlys of Newark put the wash out on the line somebody came along between dusk and dawn and took the wash and line away.

William Denly, man of the house, got tired of this and picked one night as a good time to keep a vigil. He put out the kitchen light and stationed himself in the kitchen window, with a revolver.

The hours passed. Finally, at five o'clock in the morning, a man stole silently into the yard, beneath the light of the moon, if there was one, deftly clipped the clothesline and began to fold the wash.

"Halt!" said Mr. Denly, walking out into the night and brandishing the gat. "Thrup yer hands!"

He marshaled the gentleman into the Denly kitchen, summoned Miss

Denly and should swipe folks' funds. The guest said he would never do it again, but Mr. Denly was adamant.
Gone Long Time.

And he remained adamant until he noticed his daughter was gone an awfully long time and there was no sign of her return. It was dark out. Maybe he shouldn't have sent her out alone at that time o' night.

More time passed. Still no daughter, no police. The situation began to get on Mr. Denly's nerves. The gentleman of the clothesline was quick to perceive Mr. Denly's distress. Probably he felt genuinely sorry for the worried father, but it was late and doubtless time for him to be in bed.

He waited until Mr. Denly got properly agitated and then got up and started to leave. Mr. Denly, his thoughts taken thus suddenly away from the safety of his daughter, protested. He clicked the pistol. The darn thing wouldn't shoot. His guest chuckled softly, bade him a cheery good night, best wishes and so on, and departed.

Five minutes later Miss Denly came back with a cop, and her dad hovered or is it heaved?—a sigh of relief.

Three Children Burned

Boomer, W. Va.—While both the father and mother were absent, three children of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Stone, were burned to death when fire destroyed the Stone home. Gas from a leaking pipe was ignited by an open fire, causing the blaze, it is believed.

Senseless on Stack

New York.—Hanging in his harness at the top of a 50-foot stack, after he was overcome by furnace gas, Harry Seal, a steeplejack, was rescued by police. Patrolman Busse climbed hand over hand up a rope to rescue Seal.

Fund to Teach Wives

Chicago.—A fund of $100,000 to teach housekeeping to wives and unmarried women is left by the will of a woman at Chicago to the Northwestern university. The lessons are to be given to students of the university.

Murderer Cheats Justice

Holidaysburg, Pa.—While a jury was finding him guilty of murdering a companion, Giuseppe Gremaldo, of Holidaysburg, hanged himself in a jail cell. Gremaldo used strips torn from a blanket to make a noose.

Bath Traps Lady Burglar

Paris, France.—A bathtub proved the undoing of a woman burglar who broke into a house here. The woman was in the tub when policemen arrived. She was in no condition for flight, so she was captured.

Sent Her for the Police.

Denly, his eighteen-year-old daughter, and sent her for the police.
The guest protested, pleaded, begged. He said he was a war veteran. Mr. Denly said that was no reason why he

"TIGER ROSE" IS SCHEDULED FOR SHOWING HERE

Lenore Ulric Heads Notable Cast In Famed Belasco Play

"If it's worth having, it's worth while waiting for," that's what the Warner Brothers seem to think in making us wait for their prize production of the year, David Belasco's "Tiger Rose".

Indeed it is many months since we read the announcement that Lenore Ulric, the star who created the title role on the legitimate stage, was going to portray the same part in the film production.

But it is a long road that has no ending, and now the Strand Theatre announces that "Tiger Rose," a Sidney Franklin Production, is going to play for the entire week beginning Sunday, May 11.

It was in the original stage play that Lenore Ulric really rose to great fame as "Tiger Rose", the wildcat child of the primitive northland, and for two years, night after night, she played to capacity audiences on Broadway. In this play she proved herself an actress of the highest calibre, and well earns the title of "David Belasco's greatest star." For another year the play travelled about the country, showing at the principal cities and meeting with a success only equalled by its run in New York City.

According to all indications, the screen version promises to be a great improvement over the stage play, this being due to the far greater possibilities afforded the camera in photographing the immense and beautiful outdoors—the wild and virgin woodlands stretching out as far as the eye can see until it seems to meet the sky in the purple horizon.

In "Tiger Rose," she plays a part that permits her to run the entire gamut of human emotions, from the fearless child of the woods on into the woman's frayed and beaten by circumstances beyond her control. She lives and fights in a world of men and in the end she attains her goal and comes out triumphant.

The supporting cast naturally is composed of some of the best known and highest paid artists in the field. They are Forrest Stanley, Joseph Dowling, Andre De Beranger, Sam De Grasse, and Theodore Von Eltz. The scenario was written by Edmund Goulding and Millard Webb, well known novelist and short story writer, and the direction was under Sidney Franklin.

The Greater Admiration.
Father—"When I was a young man I worked 12 hours a day." Son—"I admire your youthful energy, dad, but I admire still more the mature wisdom which led you to stop it."

Crowding Eddie Collins

John Connor (rappey), infielder of the Chicago White Sox, former college all-round athlete, is now trying to crowd Eddie Collins out of his second-base position. His career is interesting, as he stepped from the college diamond into professional ball. He was a student at Massachusetts Tech and the University of Illinois.

Dice Games Ancient.

No one can say positively when dice were invented. Credit for the invention is usually given to Pythagoras of Greece (1244 B. C.). Games played with dice are the simplest and most universal games of chance in the world.

The Weak Mind.

A weak mind is like a microscope, which magnifies trifling things, but cannot receive great ones.—Chesterfield.
