Carnival Grounds One Big Gamble
And People Are Stung

EVERY CONCESSIONAIRE SWEARING

Race Track Drew Crowds and Furnished Entertainment—Carnival
Attendance Falls off From Last Year by Many Thousands—May be Last Year of Carnival

Samson quite outdid himself in putting on two parades this year, although his carnival from standpoint of attendance was a failure. Those who did attend were slow to open up, with the result that every concessionaire and showman on the grounds was out with his kick. Everyone of them paid a big price to do business and they had a lot of trouble getting the "nut" off their place before they closed. One of them said: "It costs me six dollars a day at the hotel for rooms for myself and family and we have to eat, too"

The carnival grounds were one big gamble. Everybody who had anything to sell had a wheel and the games were all so arranged that every person who took a chance took a long one. Prices of everything were so high that the promoters were forced to do this to get away. The result was that nobody was playing the wheels and every concessionaire went away swearing. It was stated that before the carnival that games of chance of all kind were to be tabooed, but they were all there. The police said the people wanted them and the people were entitled to everything they wanted, during carnival time.

Truth is nobody had any money to spend and nobody spent any money.

The races were different. Out at the big flying field could be found thousands every afternoon and evening to witness what was going on. Ruth Law was a drawing card and the races were good. It cost $1.65 to see the doings but it was worth the money. Everybody likes a horse race and everybody got his money's worth at the park. Several local horses were entered and won their money in the races. The Brandeis entries were among the winning horses and got away with the money.

The bookmakers did a small business but were not disturbed in their work. They did not interfere with the racers and were busily engaged in their traffic from start to finish, without interruption.

The parades were of particular interest. Although Gus Renze, the artist, was not able to take his usual interest in them, he was on hand to see that they went off satisfactorily. He did not ride a float nor a horse. He was at Sixteenth and Cuming street, however, to see that the floats of the electrical parade took the juice all right. They had all been tested out however, before leaving the den, and they were Johnny on the spot when they reached the corner where they were lighted up. The subject of the floats was a popular one, Aesop's fables, and nearly everybody readily understood what each float meant. The leader was the title and the last was the King's float, carrying the king. Arthur Guioi is the latest king of Rivera, but those who saw the king on the chariot Wednesday night did not recognize him. Guioi has been popular in his work for the Ak-Sar-Ben for a quarter of a century but this has been the first time he has been honored as king. We will say it was about time.

The flower parade was a hummer. There were an eye fifty floats in the parade, and every concern overdid itself in an effort to outdo somebody else. Wilcox & Son of Council Bluffs were the only outsiders to take a hand in the doings although they were by no means outdone in any manner. It is said that some of the floats cost as much as $500 to decorate. Brandeis lined up several wagons at Sixteenth and Nicholas but they had not been decorated for the occasion and were not permitted to join with the others in the celebration. Father Flannigan's boys made a fine showing, 100 of them joining in and marching with perfect decorum, carrying their flower-bedecked symbols and marching two abreast.

Altogether it was a mighty success and showed the progressive spirit of Omaha. The crowds that witnessed both the parades was undoubtedly the largest that has ever been on the streets at one of these occasions. The

RAILROADS REDUCE SERVICE BECAUSE NOBODY TO RIDE THEM

Trains of Ten Coaches Bring Only Handful in to See Omaha Parades—Only Long Distance Riders Are Available
Now—Gasoline Cars Get the Business

An explanation of why the railroads are not reducing rates is made by the C. St. P. M. & O. railroad which is a very plausible one. On September 21 or Wednesday of this week there was a general demand from those who wish to come to Omaha for the big parade. The Omaha road decided they would meet the demand by running a ten-car special from Emerson to Omaha and return.

This was done, the train being started from Emerson in the afternoon, in order to reach the city on schedule time for the parade. The ten coaches picked up seventy-six passengers en route to Omaha, many of them coming from as close as Blair. You can figure it out almost any old way but you can not figure how the railroad could possibly break even on the train.

This is the reason there has been so much reduction in train services. The railroads will not run the trains because there is nobody to ride on them. As a matter of truth the real revenue does not come from the passenger service, which has always been a loser at the best, but it will be still further curtailed if this condition prevails.

Country folk who care to visit the city can do so, if the weather and roads are good, by jumping in their flivver and motoring into town. In fact most of them are doing that very thing, and cutting out the railroads entirely. That is alright, but they must not expect the railroads to run empty trains just to please the people.

Traveling is a very fine thing, but travelers must learn that they are not entitled to too much. Though trains are still run as usual, when it is known there is somebody to carry. But railroads are learning that suburban trains are almost a thing of the past. It is all right with them, but gasoline cars are coming into demand and it will not be long before they will have all the business.

One of our railroad guides has recently taken up this branch of transportation and has learned there are more of them doing business than they ever suspected and he has given several special pages to their business. This is also why the railroads are putting the damper on reducing rates.

From the standpoint of the road it is considered that their point is pretty well taken.

CORN-FED GUS FAY
One of the funsters with the famous "Folly Town" at the popular Gayety Twice Daily all next week.

DENNISON CALLS ON PROHIBITION OFFICER
Omaha Daily papers spread on the fact that Tom Dennison called on Prohibition officer Rohrer last Wednesday. Dennison probably had some business with Rohrer less he would not have called. He has been sick at his home on Florence boulevard for several days and this was his first visit down town since that illness began. Dennison will visit the races at several eastern cities, leaving Omaha early next week. He is interested in some of the horses that are programmed to start in these events and will be gone for some time.

Doings in Omaha Fifty Years Ago

Judge Cooley, one of our venerable attorneys, appeared in court with a new hat this week. The judge said he was still a candidate for municipal judge.

Pete Jolly did not swap off his job, all reports to the contrary notwithstanding. Pete knew a good thing when he had it.

It was pretty soft for Tom Tulley who took a few days off to visit with old friends. The street car company was able to run without him but it required lots of effort.

Long Pine was represented at the annual fall festivities by Frank Snyder of Fullerton who came to town to see the big parade.

W. R. Sherwood Daily News man said the town was not what it used to be. He missed some places very much especially the T. M.

"Rene" Buckwalter said there was no particular differences between A. Smith and Ben Danbaum, reports to the contrary notwithstanding. It is funny how reports disagree.

Leroy Wade, representing the automobile industry, was not talking for publication, for which he received full credit.

Charlie Terrell, one of our well known cheese merchants, was watching his customers closely, for fear they would slip one across him.

Hugh McGuire made social calls on some of his Omaha friends week ago Sunday. McGuire is our village fireman. He says everybody had to take a night off occasionally.

E. G. Bilstein of Loretta started the season by garnering his usual crop of ducks. He says the early bird catches the ducks.

H. W. Hale, yardmaster for the Omaha railroad was a busy man this week. He paid up his subscription and moved thirteen engines and 1,000 cars of merchandise in the local yards.

Heimer Nielson wireless from Los Angeles his regrets that he could not be here to visit the carnival and eat ice cream and drink pop.

Frank Huntley, formerly of our village, but more recently living at Delaware, Ohio, expressed his intention of returning to our city.

A lot of the old timers were on the grounds during the recent carnival. Some of them got stung, but all promised to come back.

Ed Bauer was home on a visit from Ainsworth and looking well. Ed said the supply of Hootch had almost run out at Ainsworth.

Hugh Murphy was busy again looking over his friends none of whom had any inclination to carry their hip pockets full.

Street Car Men Are Reduced

Street car men of Omaha will be reduced about 15 per cent beginning October 1. This comes as a result of the railroad commission refusing to permit the Omaha & Council Bluffs street railway to increase charges for riding on street cars from seven to eight cents.

The men have not acted on the notice as yet but one of the leaders of the union had this to say: "What are you going to do? The prices of groceries do not fall any and everything is at top prices, but we have got to work. It is going to be a bad winter for us, and we better stay on the job and work it out."

And that appears to be the feeling pretty generally. The single men are ready for anything, but the married men who have families are not taking any chances. They want to work. The street car men's union has no balance in its funds to keep them going for any length of time were they to strike. So the appearances are that they will keep right on the job and accept the cut in wages.

Things are getting pretty warm for them and they are not willing to put on a scrap at this time, when winter is coming on and it becomes necessary to fill the coal bins and prepare for the winter.

There is really no need for a vote on the matter by the men. The decision appears to be unanimous. Not a single objection has thus far been heard and the street car officials are going ahead on the assumption that it will be accepted without a murmur. Officials themselves are accepting a reduction in salary that causes that is considered sufficient excuse for the men to join them without complaining.

MOVING PICTURE HERO BEHIND BARS

Charged With Murder Of Woman In Los Angeles Hotel

VICTIM OF DRUNKEN HOTEL PARTY

Woman With Ten Drinks Says She Heard Screams—Bathtub Falls to Revive Miss Rapp—Fatty Now Has Chance to Spend his Money on Lawyers

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle has ended his usefulness, so far as entertaining the people is concerned. Fatty was a funny fellow, in the pictures, and his work has been seen by more than that of any other actor, Chaplin, Pickford and Fairbanks possibly excepted.

But Fatty lost his mind, temporarily, got drunk and the death of Virginia Rapp was the result. Miss Rapp is described as a handsome, attractive girl, with a love for a good time. She was having one when the fatal day came for her. Miss Bambina Maude Delmonte, whose testimony will be an important part of that against Arbuckle, admits she took ten drinks of whisky. She testified she heard Miss Rapp scream.

The fact remains that Fatty Arbuckle forced Miss Rapp into a room with him. What he did in that room nobody knows except Arbuckle, but when they emerged from the room Miss Rapp's clothing was nearly all torn off, she was unconscious and they put her in a bathtub of cold water. Reports say they put her in the bath to revive her, but from all appearances she was about as drunk as she could be and Arbuckle was ditto.

The real thing snacks of degeneracy, in its worst stages. Arbuckle was giving a party and it apparently was some real party. He never did things by halves. Persistent reports have stated that Arbuckle had a cellar well stocked and that he was in his cellar all the time that he was not on the picture job. He never cared nothing for virtue and lived the life of a degenerate rather than that of a real man. He was raised in it, being a spittoon cleaner in his young days in saloons where he never even graduated to become a bartender. His good looks and ability to smile were responsible for his success in becoming a moving picture hero. He was certainly a great entertainer and brought out many a laugh from the audiences who saw him all over the world.

But Fatty Arbuckle is a man of the past. He may be finally acquitted, but he is a wreck so far as being a picture hero any longer goes. His fall may be charged to prohibition more than anything else. Such a thing could not have occurred when the country made it possible for a man to put on his parties where everybody could see them. Under the present law he was forced to hold them in his private suite at the St. Francis hotel, something that is being done every day. Incidentally Omaha is having her hotel parties, just the same as Los Angeles and what is being done would put the old Ninth street "line" to shame. There is no place else to keep the police away and they are doing it right along.

There is a most serious side to the Rapp affair. Virginia was not such a bad girl, from all accounts. She joined the Arbuckle hotel party by invitation and was having a lot of fun. She was the victim of circumstances, as things go. She joined in the high balls that were so plentiful with as much glee as any of the rest of them. Arbuckle had known her for a long time, but had never come up with her under the same circumstances before. He is quoted as saying to her in his drunken stupor: "At last I have you. I have waited a long time."

Henry Lehrman, a New York moving picture man, who had made a hit with Virginia, says Arbuckle ought to be hung. He sent a thousand tiger lilies to be placed on her bier. He has broken into print repeatedly, but he did not go to Los Angeles to be present at the funeral. On the other hand he has stayed in New York and told in the press what he thought about Fatty Arbuckle.

The whole world will not condemn Arbuckle but will say that he was unfortunate in getting caught at it. Arbuckle has been making a lot of money out of the picture business. From this time until he goes to the San Quentin penitentiary, which he undoubtedly will do, he will have an opportunity to spend most of his cash, because what the lawyers do to him will be no joke. He has a large roll of it himself, but has spent plenty. His employers will not come to his rescue, so he will doubtless go to the pen broke, or nearly so. He will not

SIXTEENTH STREET IS NEW HOME OF OMAHA UNDERWORLD HABITUES

Rex Hotel Principal Headquarters of Painted Women Who Solicit
On Street—Other Hotels Take on New Lines of Business

Omaha's underworld has moved to the vicinity of Sixteenth and California streets, the women having headquarters at the Rex hotel, where more than a dozen are located. They walk the streets from there and solicit trade in their own way.

This old rookery has been giving the police trouble for a long time and the system employed by the women themselves is of the most brazen sort. Like a number of other hotels in Omaha, a hootcherie of no small dimensions is doing business at the Rex and the federal authorities are said to be looking the place over.

Other hotels in Omaha recently have been turned into other lines of business, especially on lower Douglas street. These places include the Brunswick, Albany and similar joints. They play the hootch business and all that goes with it. Like the Rex, these places use the hotel sign as a blind, and in order to protect their particular line of traffic.

The women who work out of these places are well known to the trade. They go on the streets, solicit their man and go to the hotel. They pay for their room each time they use it, which may be as often as half a dozen times in one night. They have the bell boy to call on for anything they want. Some of them order beer at $1. per bottle. It is home brew but that is sufficient. Others want the hard stuff, as they call it, at fifty cents the small drink, or $5 the bottle.

Taken altogether it is a fine business. Prohibition has brought about this condition. It matters little what the cause, however, the condition exists and will continue to exist until there is a cleaning. The proprietors of these places are not particularly to be blamed. They have long leases on the "hotels" and are not inclined to close them up so long as the opportunities exist to make them pay.

The Rex is a particular black eye to North Sixteenth street, and for that reason men who are running respectable places in that part of town are complaining bitterly against them. The police it is said, are giving their attention to this place and to several other similar institutions that are getting by in this manner.

THAT IRISH REPUBLIC

Much has been said about the proposed Irish republic. It becomes pertinent to the American people at this time. The people of Ireland are in real earnest about a republic and their one handicap is England. Peace negotiations with Ireland, as given publicity by the daily reports, are little more than a farce. They all come from an English source and are written by a deputized English hand.

In other words Ireland is fighting the same combination that we fought more than 150 years ago. The Irish people are in dead earnest about this matter. If anybody thinks they are not they should take note of what has been done in Ireland recently, and the blood that has been shed. It behooves every lover of liberty to take notice that Ireland is fighting for the identical thing our people were fighting for under George Washington. They cannot pass over lightly the sacrifices being made by the Irish people.

On August 21 there met in the Mansion House at Dublin the duly elected representatives of the Irish people, which might be called their first continental congress, because it was the first meeting of the kind held in the British empire since its foundation without the presence of a king or his appointed representative without remonstrance from the British government, our own congress of 1776 excepted.

This meeting, in view of England's policy of "What we have, we hold" was a remarkable thing to occur.

Although combined efforts of the military, the police and the auxiliary cadets to reduce the Irish people to subjection, they have failed utterly in that effort, and the Irish people have won. For forty years they undertook to win by means of argument and debate, and failed. England has tenaciously stuck to her position and has given no quarter.

The meeting of the Dail Eireann was composed of 130 members, of whom 112 had served one term imprisonment, 78 two terms, 41 three terms, and 18 four terms, and 15 had been sentenced to death and 9 had narrowly escaped assassination.

This indicates a sincerity of purpose, of which no person can have a single doubt. They are men who are ready to do or die. The world looks on and pays little attention, because they do not realize what it means. What will Ireland do if she gets her freedom, is what the rest of the world is asking now. Explanation is made by an Irishman who is well posted in the matter and has this to say:

"By the onlooking world it is apt to be casually assumed that negotiations for peace between Ireland and England signify a return to the old conditions of argument and debate. Those who take this view would do well to realize that so far as the Irish people are concerned the conflict of wills continues. They would do well, also, to note that, after all that has happened, the question with England no longer is, as it was only the other day, how much or how little they can bring themselves to concede to Ireland as instalments of freedom, but how much they can persuade or cajole Ireland into leaving them as remainders of the domination over her which they but lately claimed in theory and exercised in fact. Conversely, the question with Ireland no longer is how England can be persuaded to relinquish, by instalments, her control over Ireland's national life, but in what way Ireland, with proper appreciation of the problems involved in her geographical situation, can provide against future conflicts with England without prejudice to the essence of her own sovereign rights, her own highest interests, and her particular international position.

"Unless we are capable of realizing these differences, of appreciating these restrictions, we shall not be able to follow with understanding the progress of the negotiations for peace between the two countries; whereas, if we once do get our minds right about the change that has taken place as a consequence of Ireland's determined assertion of her national will, there should be no great difficulty about understanding what goes on, even though much of the actual business of negotiation has to be conducted behind veils of secrecy."

SAMSON PARADES BEST EVER RECORDED

night of the electrical parade, although it was over at 9:30, the streets were still full of people at midnight.

What the carnival lacked in attraction this year was furnished by the new diversions of the race track, the flying Ruth Law and other diversions. It is said this will be the last year of the carnival, which is losing its attractiveness. The fact that it has been turned over to the gamblers to a certain extent does not help conditions, any and the people themselves are not inclined to go nor let their children go.

The gaming wheels have to a certain extent put an end to it. No showman is willing to take a chance and the Ak-Sar-Ben people probably will not put on a carnival like the old one another year.

COUNCIL BLUFFS OFFICERS INVADE EAST OMAHA JOINTS

A squad of Council Bluffs police officers made a quick call on the Council Bluffs end of East Omaha Wednesday night and looked over the populace there. A number of resorts were visited, including the famous "Four Roses" and the man in charge was taken along. Just what the police officers got as evidence, is not known. It is said a number of persons were taken in the raids and divided their ready cash with the police judge the next morning. Incidentally Sumner Knox, government man in Council Bluffs, visited in Omaha last week, the reason for which is not known.

Beautiful Literary Passages.

There are passages in Milton, Spenser and Wordsworth in which the mere cadence of the words is by itself delicious to a delicate ear though we cannot tell how and why. We are conscious of a strange, dreamy sense of enjoyment, such as one feels when listening in the night-time to the pattering of rain upon the roof, or when lying upon the grass in a June evening, while a brook tinkles over the stones among the sedges and trees.—From "Literary Style," by William Matthews.

Earning His Money.

Tommy has a little friend who acts as chauffeur when they go for a ride in his toy car. One day Tommy went into his uncle's home to get warm leaving Billy on the curb as usual. It was a cold day and the uncle remonstrated, telling him to go out and bring him in. "Oh, him's all right," replied Tommy. "He will have to get used to it or he won't get his twenty cents a week."

Chinese Deeds and Leases.

It is reported that Chinese property deeds or leases often have 100 signatures. The reason is that land is often owned by syndicates and agreements must be signed by every member of an organization.

Yule for Christmas.

"Yule" is the old name for Christmas, and is still used in Scotland and the north of England, and retained in the term "Yule-log." It was originally in England and Scandinavia the festival of the winter solstice.

Origin of Boston's Tremont Street.

The origin of Boston's Tremont street is said to be a corruption of Trimountain, by which name the town of Boston was first known owing to the presence of three high hills serving as a background to the peninsula.

OLAF THESTRUP IS REDUCED TO PATROLMAN

If Sergeant Olaf V. Thestrup works any longer for the city it will be in the capacity of patrolman. When he returned from a visit to Sweden he learned he had been demoted from the job of sergeant, a position to which he was promoted while Superintendent Ringer had charge of police affairs of Omaha. Thestrup was never popular with the rank and file of Omaha people and his demotion was no surprise to those who knew of his Omaha record. Whether he will accept the position is not known. He is no novice and knows enough to tell when he is licked.

Thestrup formerly was employed by the street car company, and may again be seen in a uniform of the company, although he has a perfectly good police sergeant's outfit on hand. At any time he might appear in uniform. He is reported to have made some money during his experience as sergeant and is in no hurry to return to work.

He has a column that he calls "hot stuff," that is properly named.

When Doc Tanner does a thing he does it right, and his Booster Number is done right. It contains information about some of Omaha's business men, that is interesting and ornamental. Much good luck to Tanner and his staff.

The booty has been added to the fine collection the government has on hand at the federal building in Council Bluffs, it is said. Knox took the load to his home, but got scared and transferred it to the court house.

Stop!
Using Tobacco

Perhaps you've tried to stop using tobacco only to find that the habit has such a hold on you that you gave up trying.
You know, better than anyone else that you ought to stop because, sooner or later, it is bound to undermine your health. Heart trouble, indigestion, dyspepsia, nervousness, insomnia, poor eye sight—these and many other ailments, can often be traced directly to the use of tobacco. Besides it is so expensive, utterly useless habit.

Habit Banished
In 48 to 72 Hours
No matter how firm a grip tobacco has on you—no matter whether you've been smoking cigars, pipe or cigarettes or chewing plug or snuff for a month or 50 years—Tobacco Redeemer will positively remove all craving for tobacco in any form in 48 to 72 hours. It does its work so quickly that all tobacco "hunger" is gone almost before you know it. Your desire for a smoke or a chew begins to decrease after the very first dose.
Tobacco Redeemer contains no habit-forming drugs of any kind—it is in no sense a tobacco substitute. It does not cause the slightest shock to the nervous system; on the contrary, it quiets the nerves and makes you feel better in every way.
SEND Coupon for Proof
Get our free booklet. Tells you all about the deadly effects of tobacco and how easy it is to break the habit. We will also send you copies of letters from confirmed users telling how this simple, home-treatment freed them absolutely from the habit. Just mail coupon—no postal will do.

"FOLLY TOWN" RETURNS

Last Season It Packed The Gayety Twice Daily The Entire Week. The announcement that "Folly Town" will play their annual engagement at the popular Gayety Theatre during the week starting tomorrow matinee is sure to cause a stir and furore in all circles especially when one glances over the notable array of talent that comes with this classy show.

It is known as the show that surprised Broadway. It deserves all the lavish praise that has been showered upon it. Headed by the incomparable dutch comedian Gus Fay, the dutch Ambassador of fun and wit, who has made millions laugh only by the facial funniments he is so clever at; with Johnnie Walker, the irresistible comedian true to life of a drunken character.

Also Lester Dorr, who is no stranger to the theatre going public. Lynn Cantor the prima donna, who for years has been with quality musical organizations: Edith Murray, the singing and dancing soubrette. Others in cast are James Holly, Leda Errol, Ruth Rosemond, Lucille Harrison, James Hall, Harry Bart, Ben Joss, all well known to burlesque patrons—all these stars—and yet stars even in the chorus a beauty chorus in beauty clothes.

The two act musical comedy which the company is to present is a Vaudelesque Review. The music score which is unusual in its many catchy melodies is by Jesse Greer, Ben Benard, arranged the brilliant essemble numbers. Pretty girls galore clad in rich costumes help to dazzle the eye; the best of wardrobe, resplendent in dazzling array with change after change of wardrobe, that is one delight from beginning to end.

EMPRESS ATTRACTIONS

The Empress treator next week will feature the first episode of "Hurricane Hutch," the first episode of which will be seen Monday to Thursday, and entitled "The Secret Cipher".

It will last fifteen episodes, and not a single knife or gun play will be seen from the first to the fifteenth episode, thus the blood and thunder is taken out of this extraordinary picture, which is described as full of swift action, tensy and thrills, making it a picture that mothers may take the kiddies to see or let them come alone. "The Secret Cipher" has for its scene of action Ausable Chasm, a beautiful scene in the Adirondack mountains.

The first episode introduces a silver lace scarf, in which is woven, in a secret code, the hiding place of a formula for making white paper from seaweed of which there is an inexhaustible supply. Only two persons can read the code. This chapter also discloses a plot to obtain possession of the paper mill of Nancy Kellogg, whose ever-ready champion is the fearless Larry Hutchdale, known as "Hurricane Hutch".

ORPHEUM OFFERING

Next week Kitty Doner comes to the Orpheum as the stellar attraction. This popular star of musical comedy is to appear in her most successful offering, one called "A League of Song Steps". Her ability both as a vocalist and dancer will be conspicuously displayed. She is to be brilliantly assisted by her sister Rose and by her famous brother Ted Doner.

The show is to have three featured acts. For one of these Jack Inglis is to present a highly amusing act called "One of the Neighbor's Children." Lyons and Yosco the Italian musicians and comedians will offer their delightful instrumental and singing act called "Music and Song". The third will be that of the popular entertainers, Kramer and Boyle.

Three other select Orpheum acts will round out the bill. As for Inglis, he is a comedian of original methods, and much given to eccentricity of fun-making. He is easy and off-hand in registering his jokes. Formerly he appeared in Omaha in partnership with Jimmy Duffy.

Lyons and Yosco with their harp their violin, their voices, and their engaging personality, have ever been a delight to vaudeville audiences.

"A Dramatic Cartoon" is to be presented by Miss Norton and Paul Nicholson. Last season these stage favorites were featured in Mark Swan's "She Walked in Her Sleep". Formerly they headed the cast of "A Pair of Sixes".

"The Bachelor's Vision" is a delightful skit presented by Samsted and Marion. Song and story are important elements of their offering.

SMOKE Gen'l. Stanton, mild Havana, 10c & 15c.

EMPRESS WILL REDUCE

THE PRICE SCALE. The Empress theater will reduce prices beginning next Sunday 20 per cent. The Gayety theatre reduced prices the beginning of their season. These reductions are made voluntarily and are in keeping with the after-war demand for a reduction all along the line.

It is stated that the service will be the same.

SMOKE Gen'l. Stanton, mild Havana, 10c & 15c.

MONARCH GARDEN WILL OPEN WHEN CHANGES MADE

The Monarch Gardens will reopen as soon as certain improvements can be made. The permit has been granted and the proprietor has agreed to live up to all orders that may be issued. Blacks and whites will not be permitted to mingle as before, and all dancing will be kept within the orders of Wally Wilson, who has been named dancing inspector. Felix Dolan will be the regular inspector. Incidentally Dolan will be paid by the Monarch Garden. Dolan was formerly a city detective.

OFFICER MCGUIRE HAS RUN IN WITH RUFFIANS

Traffic Officer McGuire had a run in with a bunch of ruffians who were taking the part of a drunk whom the officer was trying to arrest. McGuire was roughly handled by a bunch of rough necks who took the part of the drunk man. McGuire was able to handle him all right had the crowd who gathered kept quiet. Instead,
